Lime tree

People born in the sign of the Lime tree live out of reality, sticking to the unearthly ideals, the perfection of which they are trying to bring to Earth. They are rather lazy and go through life as if without much effort and complications. They avoid conflict, they can find acceptable compromises. They are dreamers standing with one foot down-to-earth and their heads in the clouds, where they find true happiness and well-being. In relationships they may be a bit jealous, but otherwise their marriages are usually solid, durable, and happy. They are not affected by any great ambitions and feel well in every job without stress and with nice colleagues. Often they are rather impractical, but not to the extent that they would be inhibited in everyday life.
